Build Constructive Public Awareness

Incorporate Attention To Buyers

Why focus on demand?

- Buyers are directly and indirectly responsible for all of the harm experienced by prostituted people
- Prevalence of violence in sex buying
- Social justice
- Demand drives the exploitation
  - No buyers, no business
  - No business, no exploitation of vulnerable persons

Scope of Exploitation In King County

- Web sites where commercial sex is available
  - 100+ websites
  - Backpage: 34,000 ads per month for March, April, May
- In 2014 ASU concluded there were 6800 buyers soliciting sex on one site in 24 hours
- One local review site had 15,000-20,000 members
- Detectives will get 200-250 responses to prostitution ads in 2 hours
- 204 arrests in 8 days at a single fake massage parlor

How Demand Drives The Market

Or... In A Sex Buyer's Words...

Sex Trafficking & the Tech Industry

Let's face it, the Seattle Hobby scene is thriving due, in no small part, to the area's Tech Industry. Sure, it inflates prices a bit but it also significantly increases the demand to a level that keeps existing providers busy and new ladies interested in checking it out.

Sex Buying is an individual behavioral problem

Sex Buying is also a social problem.

Targeted Sectors Of Society

Why Engage The Health Sector?

- Sex buying is a harmful practice of gender-based violence and both an individual and public health problem
- Violence prevention: Male buyers are the direct and indirect cause of the harm
- Surveillance function: understanding motivations to get at prevention
  - 67% of sex buyers want to stop
  - Sex buying as symptom of other issues

Opportunities

- Move model away from a singular focus on Harm Reduction
- Integrate those strategies into a holistic model of Violence Prevention
- Example: incorporating GBV into anti-trafficking violence prevention curricula (e.g. SOAR training or sexual assault prevention on campus)

Health Providers

- Reach sex buyers through health system
  - Doctor's offices
  - STD clinics
  - Counseling services
- Providers should make the referral to an appropriate resource
